What the five pages establish together

A Remington shotgun was in Vincent Hyler's household from December 2, 2024 (item 1). On April 15, 2025, under a domestic violence restraining order requiring surrender of all firearms, he surrendered two other guns and swore he had no others (items 2–4). The Remington appears on no receipt. Its absence was noticed and recorded within a week (item 5). On August 12, 2026, in support of an ex parte custody application, he declared under penalty of perjury: "I surrendered the firearm referenced in the 2025 directive." The Remington has never been surrendered or addressed by any court.
